About the Merton Partnership

Working together for a stronger, fairer borough

The Merton Partnership brings together organisations from all corners of the borough: public services, schools, charities, local businesses, and community groups with one shared goal: to make life better for everyone who lives, works, studies, or volunteers in Merton.

Many of the groups involved are represented here tonight at the Civic Pride Volunteer Awards, celebrating the incredible impact of local volunteers.

A Shared Commitment to Merton

By working together, the Partnership helps:

- Tackle challenges like inequality, health gaps, and climate change
- Improve access to services, learning, and job opportunities
- Strengthen safety, well-being, and support for families
- Create lasting change that reflects what matters to local people

The Merton Community Plan guides this work; a long-term vision shaped by the voices of residents.

Who's Involved?

The Merton Partnership includes:

Merton Council; NHS and public health teams; local schools and colleges; Metropolitan Police; housing providers; faith, voluntary, and community groups; local businesses and employers.

Why It Matters

Volunteers are at the heart of the Partnership's vision for a connected, caring, and resilient community. Together, we are supporting local people to lead change, recognising the power of community action and making Merton a place where everyone feels valued.

Welcome Message

Welcome to the 10th Annual Merton Partnership Civic Pride Volunteer Awards

For the past decade, we've had the privilege of celebrating the people who keep Merton moving; not for pay, not for recognition, but simply because they care.

Tonight, as we mark ten years of the Civic Pride Awards, we honour those who have cooked meals, planted gardens, mentored young people, rallied neighbours, run sports clubs, reduced waste, and quietly kept things running behind the scenes. From long-standing volunteers to under-25s leading the charge in community and sport, every nominee reflects the power of people coming together.

We'll hear about individuals who have dedicated decades to local causes. Volunteer teams who've turned shared passion into lasting impact. Young people finding their voice through sport and social action. Volunteer managers who guide and support with care. And local champions advancing sustainability and protecting the green spaces we all treasure.

So whether you're here as a nominee, a supporter, or a partner, take a moment to feel proud. Your time, your commitment, and your care make Merton a better place for everyone.

Enjoy the evening, and thank you for all that you do.

Tony Molloy
CEO of Merton Connected

YOUNG VOLUNTEER TEAM OF THE YEAR

This award recognises a team of three or more young people who have taken action to make a difference to the community and/or lives of residents in the London Borough of Merton

shortlisted nominees

Cricket Green SEN 6th Form

Based at Canons House and Grounds since September 2024, this sixth form team has embraced a wide range of volunteering roles, from hospitality and café service to litter picking, planting, and supporting community events. With energy, positivity, and a strong sense of purpose, they've not only contributed meaningfully but also challenged outdated perceptions of ability. Their work is a powerful reminder of what inclusive, supported volunteering can achieve.

Girls Empowered to Lead - ISN

This inspiring group of young women has led powerful campaigns on misogyny and gender-based violence, including support for White Ribbon Day and the Stronger Now Awards. Their work empowers other young people, especially girls, to speak up, support one another, and take action. Through their commitment and courage, they're helping to build a more equal future.

Merton Youth Parliament

Merton Youth Parliament is championing youth voice across the borough. Through borough-wide forums, they've made it easier for young people to share their views and ensured those views are heard by decision-makers. From meeting with local MPs to raising civic pride, they are a driving force for change, working to ensure the next generation is not just seen but listened to.

National Trust

Urban Rangers (Morden Hall Park)

This dedicated group of young people gives their time every other Sunday, come rain or shine. From tree planting and painting trails to tackling invasive plant species and supporting events, they consistently show up with enthusiasm and resilience. Some have been volunteering for years, others travel long distances or juggle other commitments, but all share a passion for protecting the parks. They are shining examples of what young volunteers can achieve.

Young Sports Club Volunteer of the Year

This award recognises a young volunteer (aged 25 and under) who plays a vital role in supporting local sports.

Whether coaching, refereeing, managing admin, providing first aid, or helping behind the scenes; they show exceptional dedication to making sport in Merton safe, inclusive, and accessible for all.

YOUNG SPORTS CLUB

VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

shortlisted nominees

Aicha Nicoletta Romani

Though still young herself, Aicha plays a vital role in supporting new judo learners. She patiently teaches the foundations of falls, rolls, balance, and coordination, which every athlete needs before learning more advanced techniques. Her dedication, skill, and generous use of her time make her an invaluable part of the club and a brilliant mentor to younger players.

Cashmar Douglas

Cashmar is a warm, reliable, and genuinely kind presence in the team. Loved by staff and young people alike, he connects effortlessly with everyone and brings joy to every session. His natural empathy, strong work ethic, and ability to take initiative make him an outstanding role model. With his ever-present smile and thoughtful approach, Cashmar truly goes the extra mile.

Elishia Forrester

Elishia is a dedicated, reliable, and thoughtful volunteer who brings warmth and professionalism to every shift. She listens, learns, and carries out her role with care, earning the respect of both colleagues and young people alike. Always polite, punctual, and helpful, Elishia is not only a valued team member but a genuinely uplifting presence.

Karina Gheorghiu

Karina is a talented young athlete and British Championships medallist who generously gives her time to teach younger students the basics of judo. Her passion for the sport shines through in her coaching, and her clear, friendly communication helps children grasp even the trickiest techniques. She's a role model both on and off the mat.

Cllr Maxi Martin Young Volunteer of the Year

This award recognises an exceptional young volunteer who shows dedication, resilience, and a strong commitment to making a difference.

The award is named in honour of Councillor Maxi Martin, who served the residents of St Helier Ward for 18 years. Her lifelong dedication to young people was recognised with the posthumous title of Honorary Alderman by the London Borough of Merton.

Cllr Maxi Martin

Young Volunteer of The Year

shortlisted nominees

Callum Yusuf

At just 13, Callum is already an exceptional role model. He volunteers every Saturday to support 50 disadvantaged pupils at Shine Saturday School, offering study help and encouragement with warmth and dedication. Since age 10, he has given over 225 hours to support more than 150 children. Thoughtful, respectful, and full of ideas, Callum is a shining example of youth leadership in action.

George Elbogen

Over the past 18 months, George has contributed more than 800 hours to the Snuff Mill Children and Young People Hub at Morden Hall Park. From designing a lasting exhibition on local history and wildlife to leading school sessions on river conservation, George's knowledge, patience, and attention to detail have been invaluable.

His work has left a lasting impact, showing just how much young people can achieve through dedication and passion.

Heather Leece

Heather has been a valued volunteer at Wimbledon Library for over two years. After starting with shelving duties for her Duke of Edinburgh Award, she now leads the popular Saturday morning Kids Code Club. Her positivity, leadership, and ability to engage young learners have earned praise from parents and staff alike. Heather's commitment provides children with a fun, welcoming space to grow their coding skills every week.

Cllr Maxi Martin

Young Volunteer of The Year

shortlisted nominees

Louise Simon

Louise has been a dedicated volunteer with Focus Surrey since 2018, giving years of hands-on and behind-the-scenes support to autistic children at the Saturday club in Merton. Now a trustee and Behaviour Support Lead by profession, she continues to give her time weekly leading play sessions, supporting operations, and championing inclusion. Calm, creative, and deeply committed, Louise is an outstanding role model turning advocacy into action.

Olivia Palmer

For the past year, Olivia has been a consistent and valued volunteer at Endeavour's Autistic Youth Night. Her warmth and patience have helped young people build confidence, form friendships, and grow in independence. Olivia's natural rapport and dedication have made her a much-loved part of the team and a positive role model for everyone she supports.

Saltiya Mubarak

Saltiya brings warmth, energy, and genuine kindness to every coffee morning she supports. A student at Merton College, she goes above and beyond, welcoming guests, serving refreshments, setting up the space, and sparking meaningful conversations with attendees of all ages. Her cheerful presence helps create a friendly, inclusive atmosphere for all.

Volunteer Team of the Year

This award recognises a team of three or more individuals who have come together to create positive, lasting change within Merton.

Through shared commitment, collaboration, and a strong sense of purpose, they have made a meaningful impact. Their work highlights the power of teamwork and the difference that dedicated groups can make when they join forces to support others.

Volunteer Team Of The Year

Friends of Merton Young Musicians

Friends of Merton Young Musicians play a vital role in supporting young talent across the borough. Through year-round fundraising, concert support, and a weekly café for parents and students, they help ensure music remains accessible and inclusive for all. Their dedication enables Merton Music Foundation to offer a wide range of enriching opportunities for children and young people.

Somali Community CIC

This dedicated team of women has made a lasting impact across Merton, offering vital support to Somali residents in housing, health, education, and wellbeing. Through befriending, language support, cultural activities, and health advocacy, they uplift isolated individuals, particularly women and newcomers, and help build a stronger, more connected community.

South West London Law Centre - Morden

At South West London Law Centre, this expert volunteer team has supported over 200 vulnerable Merton residents in the past year, providing vital legal advice and crisis support during times of acute hardship. Trained to navigate complex welfare systems, they advocate for emergency help, guide clients through appeals, and offer a listening ear with empathy and professionalism. Their work goes beyond immediate interventions, helping restore rights, build resilience, and uphold dignity for those facing the most challenging circumstances.

St. Raphael's Hospice Ward Companions

The Ward Companions are a remarkable team of volunteers who bring calm, care, and compassion to some of the most emotionally difficult moments in the lives of patients and families. Whether sitting with someone at the end of life, offering a quiet conversation, or simply making a cup of tea, they provide a vital presence. Always empathetic, non-judgemental, and deeply human, they give patients space to share their fears or stories and comfort families when they need it most.

Volunteer Manager of the Year

This award celebrates someone who has made a real difference through their work with volunteers.

Whether leading a team or supporting individuals, they've helped others thrive by creating a welcoming, well-organised, and rewarding volunteer experience.

From recruitment and induction to ongoing support, training, and recognition, they've shown genuine dedication to helping people feel valued and confident in their roles.

Volunteer Manager OF THE YEAR shortlisted nominees

Christine Hall-Warehouse Co-ordinator

Christine never set out to lead, but when the need arose, she rose with it. After retiring, she stepped forward to become Wimbledon Foodbank's Warehouse Co-ordinator, now overseeing a team of more than 45 volunteers and managing the receipt, storage, and distribution of over 50,000 kg of donations each year. Her leadership, care, and quiet strength have made a lasting difference to countless families and to everyone she supports.

Hassan Khan- Volunteer Services Manager

Hassan has led MertonVision's volunteer programme for three years, growing opportunities by 50% and championing inclusion at every level. A skilled trainer, he delivers engaging vision impairment awareness sessions and has introduced Braille classes alongside a fellow visually impaired volunteer. Passionate about developing others, Hassan supports volunteers of all ages and abilities, from students with learning disabilities to local community partners.

Ralph Richer - Food & Beverage Manager

Ralph has brought inclusive, thoughtful leadership to volunteer management at Morden Hall Park. Over the past year, he has expanded opportunities for volunteers with additional needs, embedding inclusion into the heart of the café team. Calm and supportive in a fast-paced setting, Ralph leads by example, ensuring every volunteer feels welcome, valued, and part of something meaningful.

Tiernan Routledge - Volunteer Manager

Tiernan has transformed the way volunteers are welcomed and supported, creating a person-centred model that puts people first. He's brought in many new volunteers while ensuring each one receives clear communication, a warm welcome, and the tools to thrive in their role. His approach has built confidence, community, and a lasting impact.

Green Champion Volunteer or Team of the Year

This award recognises individuals or teams who volunteer to protect and improve the environment through local, sustainable action.

Whether it's raising awareness, reducing waste, supporting community gardens, running food-sharing networks, or creating with pre-loved materials, these volunteers lead by example.

Their efforts help create a greener, more resilient community for all.

Green Champion Volunteer or Team of The Year shortlisted nominees

WeRPollards - Sustainable Merton

Daniella Sarpong, Nana Asare, Keziah Usher & Natasha Stanley-Usher

Over the past three years, WeRPollards has grown from a small focus group into a trusted team of community ambassadors. They've led local and school-based campaigns championing the three R's: recycling, reuse, and waste reduction. Their dedication has driven real change, from new bin stickers across the estate to lasting improvements in waste collection and management. Through repair cafés, door-to-door education, and bulky waste collections, they're driving real progress.

Wandle Heritage Charity

Steven Llewellyn, Ronald Newsham &
Vicki Carroll

For showing outstanding commitment to protecting and celebrating the River Wandle through a wide range of environmental initiatives. Their regular clean-ups have improved water quality and biodiversity, creating a healthier ecosystem. A standout effort is their eel monitoring programme, with data shared with London Zoo to support conservation. Their most innovative project is a hydroelectric power wheel in Merton, generating clean energy from the river's natural flow. Blending heritage conservation with sustainability, the charity is shaping a greener future.

The Small Quarter Community Garden

Rosemary Rowland

A passionate and consistent volunteer who has made a lasting difference at The Small Quarter Community Garden and other green spaces across Merton. From planting and composting to building and teaching, she brings energy, care, and knowledge to everything she does, especially when supporting children and people with learning differences. Rain or shine, Rosemary shows up with a smile and a plan.

Green Champion Volunteer or Team of The Year shortlisted nominees

Martin Frost

Nature Group and School Visit Volunteer

Martin has been instrumental in making the outdoor education area at Morden Hall Park more sustainable. He replaced damaged furniture with recycled materials, carefully documented the process, and trained others to ensure best practice. Martin also supported young people to create habitats and install signage encouraging respectful use of the space. Through his work with the Nature Group and schools, he promotes conservation and delivers engaging public education, including specialist spider identification training for staff and volunteers.

Mitcham
Hedgehog
Project

Emma Onyejekwe

Mitcham Hedgehog Project & Friends of Mitcham Common

Emma has shown outstanding dedication to protecting wildlife on Mitcham Common through five years of voluntary work with the Friends of Mitcham Common. She has led citizen science surveys on hedgehogs, reptiles, and bats, engaging the public while collecting vital data.

Emma also founded and runs the Mitcham Hedgehog Project, which is entirely self-funded and is now nearly crowdfunding for its second year. She regularly clears litter and debris harmful to wildlife, shares seasonal photography to raise awareness, and encourages others to care for the Common.

Sports Club Volunteer of the Year

In recognition of a volunteer sports coach who is committed to ensuring that Merton residents can enjoy the benefits of sport and physical activity, giving them the opportunity to feel more motivated, confident, and healthy.

Sports Club

Volunteer of the Year

Sarah Pizzamiglio

Sarah manages all public relations and administration with care and efficiency, always attentive to the needs of the children and their parents. She also runs the club's social media, using it to encourage children to get active, play sports, and connect with others. Her dedication behind the scenes ensures everything runs smoothly. Sarah's efforts are central to the club's success, and her voluntary contribution is truly invaluable.

Jane Herne

A driving force at TM boxing gym for over 10 years, introducing more than 80 young boxers to the sport. Jane has played a vital role in engaging young offenders and those affected by knife crime, giving them a second chance to realise their potential. She coaches four times a week, has helped win numerous titles, and has taken boxers to England Boxing level, including two European champions.

Faye Sheehan

Faye has been a driving force behind the first ParkPlay in Merton, launched in April 2024.

Since the very first session, she has brought incredible energy and commitment, helping to grow a welcoming, active community. Faye is always finding new ways to promote ParkPlay and encourage others to get involved. Her whole family supports the sessions, showing up rain or shine to keep the momentum going. Loved by the families and children who attend each week, Faye has truly helped ParkPlay thrive.

Khalid Walker

Providing free youth sessions, adult leagues, and a successful Holiday Activities & Food camp in Merton, Khalid has created a safe, family-like space where people of all ages can build confidence, stay active, and feel they belong. His dedication extends beyond Merton, donating supplies and sportswear to Jamaica. SWR isn't just about basketball; it's about pride, purpose, and positive change. Khalid's vision, energy, and heart have made a lasting impact in Merton and beyond.

Volunteer of the Year

This award honours an outstanding volunteer whose dedication has left a lasting mark on our community.

Whether through steady, behind-the-scenes support or by going above and beyond, they have played a vital role in strengthening local charitable work. Their time, care, and commitment have helped build a more connected, compassionate borough, making a real difference in the lives of others.

Volunteer of the Year

Carmelo Aquilina

Carmelo has been described as the heart of his volunteer team and the definition of selflessness. In just two years, he has become a lifeline to many, befriending isolated individuals, helping with shopping, gardening, and home visits. He leads a lunch club with pride and made a borough first by escorting vision-impaired residents to hospital appointments. Always the first to arrive and the last to leave, Carmelo quietly steps in when someone needs extra support.

Libraries

Clare Townsend

Clare brings joy, energy, and imagination to her Monday morning sessions, entertaining 40-50 children and parents with stories, songs, puppets, and props. Her engaging sessions have inspired a love of reading in young children and helped parents reconnect with their local library. Clare also supports the wider community, promoting events in the local guide and playing a key role in the grand opening of Motspur Park's step-free access.

Jade Stutely

Jade has been the driving force behind bringing GoodGym to Merton, helping volunteers run, walk, or cycle to support local causes.

In just six months, she's built partnerships across the borough, led sessions, written reports, and taken part in hands-on tasks; sometimes helping four organisations in a single day!

Jade's energy, kindness, and behind-the-scenes dedication have inspired many. Thanks to her, GoodGym is thriving in Merton and making a real difference across the community.

Volunteer of the Year

Peter Seager

Peter has been an outstanding volunteer befriender since 2018, offering consistent companionship and support to several people, one of whom he has visited regularly for over six years.

During the pandemic, he stepped up as part of Merton's COVID-19 emergency response, helping with shopping and delivering care packages to those in need.

He is known for his reliability, warmth, and willingness to help, always among the first to respond when extra support is needed.

Rosy Price

Rosy has shown outstanding dedication, warmth, and energy in her long-term volunteering with a youth group for young adults with learning disabilities.

For seven years, she has been a constant presence, giving up almost every Thursday evening to help plan, set up, and run engaging sessions.

Her positivity and humour help create a fun, inclusive environment where everyone feels welcome and valued.

Civic Pride Lifetime Legacy Award

This award honours individuals who have dedicated a significant part of their lives to volunteering, contributing to one or more local organisations for at least 20 years.

It recognises those whose long-standing commitment has created a lasting impact, offering their time, skills, and care to support others year after year.

This award celebrates not just the years given, but the heart and spirit behind a lifetime of service.

Civic Pride Lifetime Legacy Award

Abayeh Savage - AECHO

Abayeh has shown unwavering dedication to supporting minority ethnic communities in Merton, helping residents access services and integrate fully into British society. His advocacy, particularly with refugees and migrants, was vital during the COVID-19 pandemic. He promotes cultural understanding and interfaith relationships through work with local mosques and organisations, helping to build stronger community cohesion.

Afua Boaten Busia

Afua has been a valued and supportive presence in her school community for over 20 years. Always professional and approachable, she brings warmth and dedication to everything she does, whether supporting pupils, mentoring her Year Group colleagues, or helping to organise events and fundraisers. Her kindness, reliability, and willingness to give her time have made a lasting impact on the school and those around her.

Anne Peacock

In 1995, when council cuts threatened the park's upkeep, Anne was one of the first residents to act. She became a trustee in 2000 and began leading Tuesday gardening sessions in 2012. Since then, she has inspired over 40,000 volunteer hours by welcoming new members and keeping the team connected. With summer picnics, Christmas lunches, and post-session pub visits, Anne helps maintain a loyal group of volunteers who make a real difference to this treasured local green space.

Bill Swinglehurst

Bill has been an exceptional volunteer at Morden Hall Park for an incredible 27 years. His dedication to the Ranger Team has helped protect and improve the park's meadows, wetlands, and woodlands for both wildlife and visitors. Bill brings energy, care, and deep knowledge to every task, contributing to conservation work that has shaped the park over nearly three decades. His quiet commitment and hands-on support have enriched the landscape and inspired those around him.

Civic Pride Lifetime Legacy Award

Carol Graves

Carol is a quietly remarkable woman who has devoted much of her 80 years to helping others. Her volunteering journey spans six decades, beginning with the Simon Community in her early 20s and including involvement in the early days of Crisis and Centrepont. Carol has fundraised internationally, supported refugees in Sarajevo, and contributed locally through 15 years at the FIA Drop-In, the Merton Winter Night Shelter, and Dons Local Action Group.

Dean Bundy

Dean has dedicated 25 years to volunteering with Little League, making a lasting impact across all areas of the organisation. He has managed teams in multiple age groups, always providing the support and guidance needed to help young players thrive. In recent years, Dean has taken on the role of player coordinator, ensuring every child is matched to the right team and feels part of the club.

Edla Rouse

Edla is a founding member of BAME VOICE and has served on its management committee representing West Indian Families and Friends Association. A retired senior NHS manager, she has volunteered in many roles over the past 25 years. Her contributions to forums such as the Dementia Alliance have brought vital cultural awareness to improve outcomes for Black patients. Her commitment, patience, and tireless service are a testament to her dedication.

Joanna Ford

Joanna has shown remarkable dedication to Morden Hall Park, volunteering with the National Trust for over 20 years. She has been a vital part of the Visitor Experience team, especially during busy school holidays, supporting with storytelling, crafts, duck races, and more. Her enthusiasm and kindness have helped create memorable experiences for children and families alike. Joanna's presence brings energy to every event, and her contribution has become an essential part of what makes their programming so special.

Civic Pride Lifetime Legacy Award

Linda Neal

Linda has been a dedicated volunteer for over 50 years, supporting countless organisations and making a lasting difference in her community. She first began volunteering as a Girl Guide helper and has continued to give her time ever since. In 2015, she became a founding trustee of Ashdon Jazz Academy, playing a key role in recruitment, policy development, governance, training, fundraising and administration. As we mark her 10th year with the charity, we also honour the decades of service she has given more widely.

Nana Brenya-Mensa

Nana is a caring, patient and dedicated individual who has spent her life supporting children and families. As a teacher, she was deeply respected by pupils, parents and colleagues, always striving to help every child achieve their full potential. Since retiring, she has continued to give her time to the community through volunteering. Nana has played a key role in setting up and running Mitcham Youth, the Ghanaian Parents Group, and mentoring young people in need. Her lifelong commitment to education and community support makes her a truly inspiring nominee.

Nick Skilton

Nick has been part of The Endeavour Club since the age of 9, first as a participant and later as a dedicated volunteer. Over the years, he has given countless hours to supporting children and young people across Merton. Nick is a positive role model whose guidance and encouragement have helped many turn their lives around. His long-standing commitment has made a real difference and helped shape the next generation of responsible, confident members of the community.

Civic Pride Lifetime Legacy Award

Nigel Gray

Nigel has been a dedicated volunteer for 25 years, managing teams across Morden Little League's girls' divisions and playing a key role in their development and success.

For the past six years, he has also served as Vice Chairman, offering steady leadership and unwavering support to players, coaches, and fellow volunteers.

Nigel's long-standing commitment has made a lasting impact.

Nzingha Assata

Nzingha came to the UK from Jamaica in the early 1950s and built a lifelong career in nursing, while also dedicating decades to supporting young parents, especially within Merton and Wandsworth's BAME communities. In retirement, she continued as a volunteer empowerment speaker, advocate, and school mentor. During the COVID-19 pandemic, she delivered food to those in need, even after recovering from the virus herself. In 2014, she founded Friends of Pollards Hill Youth Centre to keep services running through funding cuts. Thanks to her leadership, the centre remains open and now supports over 100 young people each week.

Pauline Robinson

Pauline has been at the heart of the centre since it opened 42 years ago, giving her time, kindness, and joy to generations of families. She volunteered with toddler and lunch groups for over 20 years and played a key role in creating a fully inclusive, high-quality dance school at the centre. Her influence lives on through her twin daughters, who now lead a thriving freestyle dance programme for children aged 3 to 18.

Always warm and welcoming, Pauline's presence continues to uplift others and create a lasting sense of belonging in the community.
